A Great Leap for Sustainable Finance in Nigeria, As FMDQ Group Launches Africa's Premier Green Exchange

▪ FMDQ Exchange Signs Listing Agent Agreement with Luxembourg Stock Exchange

The ongoing 26th United Nations Climate Change Conference of the Parties (“COP26”) has once again set sustainability and sustainable finance at the fore of global conversations, as world leaders have collectively resolved to tackle climate change. It has therefore become imperative to deepen the sustainable finance ecosystem to foster more sustainable investments for the achievement of these lofty aims. As a sustainability focused financial market infrastructure (FMI) group, FMDQ Holdings PLC’s (“FMDQ Group” or “FMDQ”) strong commitment to its five (5) Sustainability Pillars – Business, Markets, People, Community and Environment, and recognition of the need for Nigeria to continuously stay at the forefront of the global sustainable finance drive, have seen the Group take the lead in championing sustainable finance initiatives in the Nigerian financial markets. In furtherance of this, FMDQ Group, through its wholly owned subsidiary, FMDQ Securities Exchange Limited (“FMDQ Exchange”), on November 8, 2021, launched the pioneer Green Exchange in Africa – FMDQ Green Exchange, introducing a platform specifically for green and sustainable securities.

FMDQ Green Exchange (the “Green Exchange”), a virtual information repository platform dedicated to driving the growth of green and sustainable securities and providing reliable green data in the Nigerian financial markets – through promoting transparency, good governance, and compliance – by showcasing securities issuances that align with global Environmental, Social and Governance (“ESG”) principles, was launched in a prestigious ceremony that saw the virtual and physical attendance of the Nigerian financial markets stakeholders, including the Executive Governor of Lagos State, Mr. Babajide Sanwo-Olu as the Special Guest of Honour, ably represented by the Special Adviser to the Lagos State Government on the Sustainable Development Goals (“SDGs”) and Investments, the Director-General of the Securities and Exchange Commission, Nigeria, Mr. Lamido Yuguda, the pioneer Issuers of green securities on FMDQ Exchange – Debt Management Office, Nigeria (DMO); Access Bank PLC; and North South Power Company Limited (NSP), sustainability enthusiasts, as well as notable stakeholders in the global sustainable finance space, amongst others.

Mr. Bola Onadele. Koko, Chief Executive Officer, FMDQ Group, during his opening address, said “with climate change increasingly becoming one of the biggest risks facing the world today and in recognition of an even greater need to promote economic development in Nigeria through green and sustainable finance, FMDQ Group considered it pertinent to launch the FMDQ Green Exchange initiative. We are indeed proud to note that the launch of Nigeria’s premier Green Exchange places Nigeria, and by extension, Africa, amongst other global jurisdictions with securities exchanges with such exclusive platforms, such as the Luxembourg Stock Exchange, which launched the world’s first and leading dedicated platform for sustainable finance (the Luxembourg Green Exchange), amongst others.”

Delivering his keynote address, the Executive Governor of Lagos State, represented by his Special Adviser on the SDGs and Investments, Mrs. Solape Hammond, said “the value that a Green Exchange such as this brings, providing investors a transparent, effective platform for accessing the African sustainability finance market and thereby opening the doors of deep sustainable funds for infrastructure and social development, is almost immeasurable. There is therefore no doubt that the FMDQ Green Exchange will assist in unlocking sustainable resiliency.” He also reiterated Lagos State’s commitment to championing and supporting initiatives geared towards the sustainable socio-economic development of Lagos State, and the nation at large.

In an equally exciting development poised to further deepen the Nigerian debt capital market and as a highlight of the launch ceremony, FMDQ Exchange and the Luxembourg Stock Exchange (LuxSE) executed a Listing Agent and Cooperation Agreement to facilitate the dual listing of securities issued by financial institutions and corporates domiciled in Nigeria on both FMDQ Exchange and LuxSE markets. Speaking to this development, Ms. Julie Becker, Chief Executive Officer, LuxSE stated “we are pleased to enter into this Cooperation Agreement with FMDQ Exchange and will work together to create synergies and connections across our markets. I would like to congratulate FMDQ Exchange on the launch of the FMDQ Green Exchange and I look forward to further exploring new fields of cooperation in the area of green finance.” Lauding this initiative, Ms. Tumi Sekoni, Managing Director, FMDQ Exchange, said “Indeed, we are excited to be executing a Listing Agent & Cooperation Agreement with LuxSE, and hopeful that this partnership will birth an avenue for FMDQ Exchange and LuxSE to achieve formidable market cooperation and promote even greater information symmetry for the benefit of the Nigerian and global financial markets”.

The ceremony culminated with Goodwill Messages from FMDQ’s markets stakeholders, including Ms. Patience Oniha, Director-General, DMO; Mr. Herbert Wigwe, Group Managing Director/CEO, Access Bank PLC; Engr. Olubunmi Peters, Executive Vice Chairman/ CEO, NSP; Dr. Doyin Salami, Vice Chairman, Financial Centre for Sustainability, Lagos; Mr. Bolaji Balogun, Chairman, Steering Committee, FMDQ Debt Capital Market Development Project; Mr. Ben Llewellyn-Jones, OBE, Deputy High Commissioner, British High Commission, Lagos, amongst many others.

Not resting on its laurels, FMDQ Group shall continue to place financial innovation at its core as it leverages on global best practices to deliver unrivaled value to the Nigerian financial markets, with the support of its varied stakeholders.

FMDQ Group Celebrates Resilience in the Nigerian Financial Markets... Unveils Winners of its 4th Annual GOLD Awards

In keeping with its corporate tradition, FMDQ Group has announced the winners of the 2021 edition of the FMDQ GOLD Awards. Launched in 2018 to mark the 1st FMDQ Lustrum, the FMDQ GOLD Awards (“GOLD Awards”) was birthed to recognise the efforts and contributions of market participants whose activities in the FMDQ markets – Fixed Income, Currencies and Derivatives markets – play a key role in fostering the growth and development of the Nigerian financial markets. The GOLD Awards acknowledges the valuable efforts of these stakeholders, whose participation in the FMDQ markets and across the financial market infrastructure (FMI) value chain of FMDQ’s business – Exchange, Central Counterparty, Depository – as well as Private Markets, have positively shaped the course of the markets and invariably impacted the development of the Nigerian economy.

Now in its fourth (4th) year, the 2021 FMDQ GOLD Awards covered the review period of October 2020 to September 2021. The year 2021 has seen the gradual recovery of the global economy following the economic disruption caused by the COVID-19 pandemic in 2020. The Nigerian economy has also reflected this recovery as evidenced in the 2021 Q2 real Gross Domestic Product (GDP) of 5.01%, compared to the 2020 Q2 real GDP of -3.62%. The FMDQ markets rightly recorded some growth, particularly the Fixed Income market as seen in the volume of admitted securities (eighty-two (82) in 2020, compared to one hundred and fifteen (115) recorded so far in 2021). The GOLD Awards rightly celebrates and recognises the diverse market participants that have contributed to this growth, which have invariably fueled the growth of the Nigerian economy.

The winners of the 2021 FMDQ GOLD Awards, as verified by Ernst & Young Nigeria, a global assurance services firm, were announced via publication on Friday, November 5, 2021. Recipients of this year’s GOLD Awards include, but are not limited to: BUA Cement PLC with two (2) Awards in the Primary Market Category (Largest Corporate Bond Listing on FMDQ and Single Largest Corporate Debt Issue on FMDQ); Stanbic IBTC Capital Limited and Stanbic IBTC Bank PLC, took home two (2) Awards in the Primary Market Category (FMDQ Exchange Registration Member (Listings) and FMDQ Capital Markets Securities Origination) and three (3) Awards in the Secondary Market Category (FMDQ FX Market Liquidity Provider, FMDQ OTC FX Futures Bank and FMDQ Dealing Member of the Year), respectively. Other prestigious Awardees include Chapel Hill Denham Advisory Limited, J.P. Morgan LLC, Zedcap Partners Limited, all bagging an Award each from the Secondary Market Category. In the FMDQ Leadership Category, the Central Bank of Nigeria bagged the Award for FMDQ Capital Market Catalyst, for its establishment of InfraCo PLC which is expected to ease Nigeria’s infrastructure deficit, significantly deepen the Nigerian capital markets, and increase the supply of potentially investment-grade assets. All validated results, including winners, nominees & finalists, and awards descriptions, are available on FMDQ GOLD Awards website – www.fmdqgroup.com/goldawards/.

Speaking to the GOLD Awards, the Chief Executive Officer, FMDQ Group, Mr. Bola Onadele. Koko, congratulated the winners of this year’s GOLD Awards, while applauding the FMDQ market participants for their resilience and demonstrated dedication to the Nigerian financial market. Mr. Onadele also commended the winners of the FMDQ GOLD Awards, noting that their efforts and doggedness to deliver superior value and innovative solutions to their various stakeholders, have led to the development of the Nigerian financial towards making it GOLD - Globally competitive, Operationally excellent, Liquid, and Diverse.

FMDQ, supported by its stakeholders, will continue to work towards the advancement of the Nigerian financial markets, with the FMDQ GOLD Agenda serving as its guiding compass. Risk Management in the Repurchase Agreement Market

In the October 2021 edition of the Learning Article (read here), we highlighted some of the challenges in the Nigerian Repurchase Agreements (“Repos”) market and their causes. As a refresher, a Repo, is a financial market transaction between two (2) counterparties in which one party (Repo Seller) sells a financial asset to the other party (Repo Buyer) at an agreed price and simultaneously commits to buy (i.e., repurchase) the same or identical financial asset from the Repo Buyer at an agreed price (Purchase Price) at a future date. The difference between the sale and repurchase price reflects the rate of interest to be earned by the Repo Buyer.

Some of the challenges in the extant Nigerian Repo market include:

- Lack of price discovery
- Inadequate/irregular collateral valuation
- Lack of collateral substitution

This edition aims to explain some of the risks in the Repo market and tools to manage such risks. Consider these scenarios –

Bank A (Repo Buyer) agrees to enter a Repo transaction with Bank B (Repo Seller). At initiation, Bank A lends cash (say: ₦100.00 million) to Bank B whilst Bank B provides securities (for example a Federal Government of Nigeria (“FGN”) for a term of seven (7) days. During the tenor of the Repo transaction, there may be a significant change in the price of the security (i.e., the FGN bond) and the value of the security as collateral falls below its initial value. This will in turn mean the Repo Buyer is holding securities less than the value paid for.

In a different transaction, Bank C (Repo Buyer) agrees to enter a Repo transaction with Bank D (Repo Seller). At initiation, Bank C is required to lend cash (say ₦50.00 million) to Bank D, whilst Bank D provides securities (say: Nigerian Treasury bills), and Bank D is required to repurchase the securities at an agreed price. At maturity of the Repo transaction, either of the parties may default on their obligations; say Bank D may be unable to repurchase the securities or Bank C is unable to provide the securities. If any of these happens, the other party will be at a loss.

The Scenarios explained above reveal the major risks in the Repo market. These risks are the market risk (scenario 1) and the counterparty risk (scenario 2).

Market risk is the change in value of the securities due to price movement. A rise in the price of securities (collateral in a Repo transaction) indicates that the Repo Seller has offered more (in terms of value) to the Repo buyer and a fall in the price of the collateral means the Repo Buyer has offered more cash than the value of collateral transferred in the Repo Transaction. Counterparty risk on the other hand is the possibility of either of the counterparties in a Repo transaction not fulfilling its obligation, as in the case of Bank C and D. In a Repo transaction, both parties are exposed to counterparty risk; the Repo Seller, on settlement date, may not have sufficient cash to meet its obligations, conversely, the Repo Buyer, may not have the securities to meet its obligation on the maturity date of the Repo transaction.

Repo Market Risk Management Tools

Considering the risks stated above, to mitigate the impact of price movement on the value of the security (the market risk), a Haircut may be adopted. A Haircut is an agreed percentage discount applied to the market value of a collateral to fix the Purchase Price at the start of a Repo. For example, in the case of Bank A and Bank B, if a Haircut is applied, the Repo Buyer would be required to provide excess security. The excess security provided would be aimed at managing the risk in case the value of the collateral declines during the term of the Repo. Consequently, the value of the security can be monitored daily (or more frequently, depending on the volatility of the securities) such that if there is a change in the price of the security and the value of the Repo collateral falls below a predetermined threshold, there shall be a collateral top upon the Repo Seller. The Repo Seller would therefore be required to provide additional securities to the Repo Buyer to ensure the value of the collateral is equivalent to the cash consideration in the Repo transaction. Alternatively, if the price of the securities and the value of the Repo collateral rises above the predetermined threshold, the Repo Buyer shall be required to return securities or provide additional cash to the Repo Seller to ensure the value of collateral transferred in a Repo transaction is equivalent to the cash consideration. This process is referred to as Collateral Management.

In the event of a default (a situation where a party to a Repo transaction is unable to fulfil their obligations, as illustrated in the second scenario), a Default Management process which may include inter alia, suspending the defaulting party from trading activities, liquidation of the defaulting party's assets to meet its obligation etc. The aim of the Default Management is to ensure that the settlement obligations are fulfilled.

These risk management tools are widely adopted across the global Repo markets. As such, to standardise the Nigerian Repo market and ensure it is operating in line with global best practice, FMDQ Exchange initiated the Bilateral Repo with Collateral Management Project to effectively manage the risks associated with the Repo market, promote market participation and liquidity.
